Package Store Responsible Sales

Package Stores present a different set of possible problems regarding alcohol sales. Most are not serving by the drink, and food is not in the equation, so selling responsibly entails different techniques. Some of the positive responsible sales techniques we encourage include:

- Observe the customer for visual signs of intoxication; remember, you are not to sell to those already intoxicated.
- Discourage loitering on your premises.
- Make it policy to not allow drinking on the premises.
- Remember that if you have a question about the authenticity of an identification, or any discomfort about the sale, you have the right to refuse.
- Keep communication with your coworkers.
- Keep an eye out for groups of people together
- Are there minors waiting in the parking lot for their friend to buy for them?
- ID everyone in a group to ensure all are of age to purchase.
- Ensure all employees know the products well including those with different packaging such as alcoholic energy drinks.
